

File 770

Mike Glycer's news of science fiction fandom

Journey Planet 65 – Rogue One

Posted on September 21, 2022 by Mike Glycer

Celebrating Rogue One, the stunning cover of the current issue of Journey Planet, is by Iain Clarke, one of two pieces that he has contributed to this issue.

Alissa Wales joins Christopher J. Garcia and James Bacon on this issue which looks at Rogue One with thoughtfulness and affection.

What is it about Jyn Erso that fans find so compelling?

A series of fans spend time thinking about Jyn and Rogue One. James Mason, Ann Gry, Ken Marsden and Noelle Ameijenda share their thoughts.

Art is provided by Micheal Carroll, Sara Felix, Colin Arthurs, while professional comic artists, Will Sliney, Ruarí Coleman and Keith Burns contribute thoughts on the film.

Amongst the many contributors, we hear from Victor D'Agostino II, Keith Perrin and David Ferguson.

This issue includes a data visualization by Phoenix, prints of which are being sold to raise money for the Royal British Legion Red Poppy Appeal — providing lifelong support to serving and ex-serving personnel and their families. <https://www.phoenixdataart.com/rogue-one>

Peppard Saltine takes an informed and reflective set of considerations into account regarding the filming, and asks some hard questions about what happened pre and post production. Their experience and insight in the film industry offer an interesting view.

Download the issue here.

This entry was posted in Fanzines and tagged Alissa Wales, Chris Garcia, James Bacon, Journey Planet, Rogue One by Mike Glyer. Bookmark the permalink [<https://file770.com/journey-planet-65-rogue-one/>].

This site uses Akismet to reduce spam. Learn how your comment data is processed.